

Once upon a time, a mother fox gave birth to a baby fox. She loved him, but soon she left to get food for the both of them.

While his mother was out, he heard a gun shot and then silence. It was getting late and his mother still hadn't come home.

The baby fox is helpless without his mother, but if he does nothing, he could die. The baby fox can either:

Cry out for this mother

Wait patiently in hopes his mother will come home
