

The woman reaches in and picks up the fox with a warm hug.

She puts him in the back of her truck and drives home. She gives the baby fox some milk and a place to sleep. The woman says that she's going to call him Red due to how orange the his coat is.

The next morning, Red goes out exploring.

Explore