

Red adapts well to his new environment. He and the lady fox became partners for life, but Red still goes back every once and a while to visit his first family.

The End